Dive into Water Safety

Follow tips to ensure a fun time while on the river: know your limits, wear a life jacket, stay hydrated, check weather conditions, keep an eye on the kids, buddy up and share your plan.

Let's make the last bit of summer one to remember for all the right reasons.

Water Conservation: Your Efforts are Appreciated

While Alberta's hot, dry weather this summer has put additional strain on watersheds throughout our region, the success of Cochrane's well-established water conservation program has ensured we continue to minimize our overall impacts to the Bow River watershed.

Water conservation initiatives such as our three-tier water rates, year-round Level 1 watering restrictions, time of day watering, community signage, low flow fixtures bylaw and the rebate program continue to impact and reduce our communities' overall water use.

These measures combined with responsible stewardship demonstrated by Cochrane's citizens have resulted in reduced peak water use so far this summer, well done!

For more information about our water conservation program including our available rebates, visit Cochrane.ca/waterconservation

Clean your carts:

Your compost and waste collection carts can get messy during high temperatures. Grab your gloves and clean out your bin to control odors, prevent pests, promote effective composting and waste management.
