Karen Ho Fatt

is an accomplished Alberta-based artist whose journey began with a childhood curiosity sparked by painting “Paint by Numbers” and sculpting her first stone piece at the age of eight. With a Bachelor of Interior Design from the University of Manitoba and a BFA in Ceramics from the Alberta University of the Arts, her artistic path has been shaped by a deep interest in community storytelling, nature, and the transformation of everyday forms. Her style blends representational abstraction with bold colours and organic shapes, brought to life through mosaic, ceramics, metal, and other durable mediums. Karen’s work is prominently displayed across Alberta in cities like Edmonton, Calgary, Red Deer, Leduc, and St. Albert, and she continues to create from her studio nestled in the foothills of the Rockies. Being part of the Cochrane Crossing Civic Plaza Art Project is a meaningful opportunity for her to reflect local heritage and identity through public art that is both timeless and evocative.
